SLEX traffic to normalize by end of Nov.

MANILA — An official of the South Luzon Tollway Corporation (SLTC) on Tuesday said traffic flow in the South Luzon Expressway (SLEX) will return to normal by end of November.

In a radio interview over DZMM, SLTC and Skyway Operation and Maintenance Corp.

(SOMCO) president Manuel Bonoan said improvement works which resulted in the heavy traffic along SLEX, from Alabang to Skyway in Muntinlupa City, were being rushed to ease the burden on motorists.

“We will not go beyond November 30. 24/7 po yung trabaho namin diyan (We work 24/7 there) and we have a very strict timetable to finish all the works dito po sa parte ng (in the area of) Skyway at-grade,” Bonoan said.

He said the vehicular congestion began on September 24 when one lane in the road below Skyway was closed to make way for

DILG orders LGU to lift ban on processed meat products

MANILA --- Following the implementation of measures to contain the spread of African swine fever (ASF), the Department of the Interior and Local Government (DILG) has directed local government units (LGUs) to allow the distribution and sale of processed meat products that contain pork as ingredient in all provinces subject to certain conditions.

“Since the government has been acting aggressively and effectively to address the ASF outbreak, we are urging all LGUs to lift the ban on processed meat products containing pork for as long as the products meet certain conditions imposed by the Department of Agriculture (DA),” DILG Secretary Eduardo M. Año said.

In a memorandum circular to governors, city and municipal mayors, and punong barangays, Año said all LGUs should strictly adhere to specific guidelines on the movement, distribution, and sale of processed meat products “in order to protect the consumers as well as the stakeholders in the meat industry from any disruption in the flow of trade and commerce across the country.”

The same memo circular also said for processed meat products that do not have pork as raw material such as corned beef, beef hotdogs, chicken nuggets, chicken hotdogs, and similar items, these should be allowed unrestricted movement and distribution in all provinces.

“Upon demand by LGU quarantine officials, the Certificate of Product Registration of processed meat products issued by the Food and Drug Administration to the manufacturers may be shown to LGUs. This should suffice to allow movement and distribution to all provinces,” Año said.

On the other hand, processed meat products that contain pork as an ingredient, either partially or fully, should also be allowed to be distributed and sold to all provinces subject to conditions imposed by the DA.

Under the guidelines, meat products containing pork should be heat-treated or fully cooked according to internationally accepted standards adopted by the Philippine Association of Meat Processors.

For canned meat products, they should be cooked at 116 degrees Celsius for at least 60 minutes, while hotdogs, GRADE 10 CAVITEÑO STUDENTS COMPETE IN THE PROV'L KOOP QUIZ BEE 2019: Fourteen Grade 10 students from various schools in Cavite participated in the Provincial Koop Quiz Bee 2019 on October 11, 2019 at the Session Hall of the Legislative Building in Trece Martires City. The activity is part of the Cavite Cooperative Month Celebration which aims to influence schools in enterprise development through cooperatives and extend their social and economic contribution to society. CDA IV-A Provincial Cooperative Development Specialist Ms. Rowena S. Fruto, UNECO Executive Officer Ms. Fe Regielyn S. Catibayan, PAMANA DCF Vice-Chairperson Ms. Sharon Rose Rioflorido and DepEd Cavite Administrative Officer IV Mr. Melecio Pedron were present to ensure the smooth flow of the competition. After three rounds, Ms. Ria Aurora Mendoza of Emilia Poblete National High School was hailed as the over-all champion followed by Mr. Francis Paul J. hams, and bacon should be processed/smoked/cooked to a core temperature of at least 72 degrees centigrade for over one hour. Smoked/cooked pork sausages, on the other hand, should be cooked to a core temperature of at least 72 degrees centigrade for at least 40 minutes.

Since imported pork is generally used by meat processors, the manufacturer/processor should present certification as to source/origin from a non-ASF infected country supported by any acceptable document such as Veterinary Health Certificate of the exporting country and the Sanitary and Phyto

Sanitary (SPS) Import Permit issued by the DA.

On the other hand, if pork is sourced from local producers, a document issued by the National Meat Inspection Service (NMIS) authorizing its movement or use for the production of processed meats should be shown to LGU authorities.

For processed meat products such as tocino, fresh longganisa, and tapa that use pork as material but do not undergo heat treatment or full cooking, an NMIS certification is necessary for locally-sourced pork.

For imported meat materials, permits and certifications to ensure that the source countries are free from ASF and are from DA-approved sources are essential.

D I L G Undersecretary and spokesperson Jonathan Malaya said the DILG guidelines are issued to protect all stakeholders, the economy, the industry, and the consumers.

“The experts from the Department of Agriculture have already advised us that if the conditions are met, processed meat is safe. Moreover, the current restrictions will ultimately force consumers to pay higher prices because of the adverse impact of the LGU-imposed ban on the meat industry,” he said.

Since the ASF outbreak in July, there have been approximately 30,000 pigs that have so far died and were culled due to ASF, which amounts to less than 1 percent of the country’s total swine population of 12.8 million.

According to the NMIS, ASF is a highly contagious viral disease that causes death among pigs, warthogs, and boars due to high fever, loss of appetite as well as hemorrhages in the skin and internal organs. There is no known vaccine against ASF yet.

The World Organization for Animal Health said there is no vaccine for the virus, although both the DA and the Health department have said it is harmless to humans. (PR) improvement works voluntarily undertaken by San Miguel Corp. (SMC) Tollways.

The improvement works were meant to address traffic build-up from the Skyway ramp to SLEX southbound and to ease the difficulty of entering the Skyway ramp northbound.

“Kaya naman po nagkaroon ng spike 'yung traffic dito sa SLEX nung September 24, 25, is because naisara namin 'yung one lane dito sa ibaba ng Skyway (The reason why we had a spike in traffic here in SLEX on September 24, 25, is because we closed one lane below Skyway),” he said.

Once normal traffic flow is restored, Bonoan said the management of vehicular traffic in their jurisdiction would continue in anticipation of the coming December rush.

“Puspusan pa rin naming i-manage 'yung traffic. In fact, ang bigger challenge sa amin dito ay December traffic will come in—matindi na naman 'yung trapik nating inaasahan diyan (We will continue to work hard in managing traffic. In fact, the bigger challenge to us is the December traffic—we’re expecting heavy traffic again by that time),” he added.

Bonoan said prior to starting the project, a traffic management plan had been laid out and coordinated with the respective local government units.

On Sept. 25, the SMC Tollways appealed for understanding from the public following the start of improvement works.

“Konting tiis lang po. Sa pagtatapos ng proyektong ito, higit pong giginhawa ang daloy ng trapiko (Please bear with us. By the end of this project, traffic flow will vastly improve),” the SMC Tollways said in a statement.

On the same day, SLEX released a traffic advisory which said it closed its outermost northbound lane to traffic starting from the Alabang viaduct. (PNA)

This verified petition, dated 05 July 2018, filed by the petitioners, through counsel, prays that after due notice, publication and hearing, judgment be rendered for the issuance of a decree of adoption declaring the minor Ashley Nicole Sangalang Morgan as the legitimate child of the petitioners Marilyn Sangalang Morgan, a Filipino citizen; and Cleon Horten Morgan, an American citizen.

On 29 April 2019, the Court found that the petition prayed for a change of the minor's name. Thus, the court directed the petitioners to amend the petition in conformity with Section 10 of A.M. No. 02-6-02-SC to contain the full name by which the child is to be known. Further, petitioners were likewise directed to furnish the Office of the Solicitor General with a copy of the amended petition together with its annexes and to furnish this Court a copy of such compliance and amended petition within five (5) days from receipt of this Order pursuant to Section 12 last paragraph of the same law.

On 27 May 2019, the petition has not yet been amended to the effect that the registered name of the child and the full name by which the child is to be known be contained in the title or caption of the case.¹ Hence, the court reiterated its order dated 29 April 2019.

On 14 June 2019, petitioners, through counsel, filed an amended Petition dated 11 June 2019, to include the full name "Ashley Nicole Sangalang Morgan" by which the minor is to be known. A copy of the order was directed to be published at least once a week for three (3) consecutive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation within the Province of Cavite.

Experts note rise in number of unhealthy kids in PH

MANILA -- Health experts on Wednesday reported that more Filipino children are not growing up healthily due to poor diet, inadequate nutrition, and defective food systems.

During a media forum in Makati City, the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) cited that one out of three Filipino children under five years old is stunted - they are too short for their age - while 7 percent of them are too thin for their height.

The organization also reported that a tenth of Filipino adolescents is overweight.

UNICEF Philippines representative Oyun Dendevnorov said apart from being stunted and overweight, Filipino children and adolescents have increased vulnerability to diseases due to poor health-seeking behavior, incomplete immunization, poor hygiene and care practices, and inadequate diet.

"The undernutrition facts in the Philippines are disturbing. One in three 12 to 23-month-old children suffers from anemia while one in three children is irreversibly stunted by the age of two. On the other hand, one in 10 adolescents is obese from wrong eating habits," Dendevnorov added.

UNICEF nutrition specialist Dr. Rene Galera, meanwhile, reported that one in two children suffers from hidden hunger due to deficiencies in vitamins and essential nutrients.

"This heavy toll is made all the more insidious by the fact that hidden hunger is rarely noticed until it is too late to do anything. And, the numbers of women and children and women affected by various forms of hidden hunger are striking as UNICEF estimates that at least 340 million children are under five suffer from micronutrient deficiencies," Galera added.

Department of Health Disease Prevention and Control Bureau officer-in-charge Dr. Anthony Calibo said undernutrition among children and adolescents could be a challenge because they have easy access to processed and sugary food, especially in schools.

"As children, they don't know what food to ask, but depend on adults and their caregivers to know what food they need to grow healthily and avoid preventable, non-communicable diseases in the future such as diabetes and hypertension," Calibo said.

"Driving food suppliers to do the right thing for children, building healthy food environments, mobilizing supportive systems to scale up nutrition results, and collection and use of quality data and evidence to regularly track progress are a few of the ways by which we can prioritize children's nutrition," he said.

National Nutrition Council executive director Dr. Azucena Dayanghirang said the national government, through the Philippine Plan of Action for Nutrition (PPAN) 2017-2022, is "exerting all its efforts" to address malnutrition among children.

Parents warned against instant noodles, processed foods

MANILA -- Health experts on Wednesday urged parents to avoid feeding their young children with instant noodles and processed foods.

"In complementary feeding, this is when a child starts feeding at six months old, don't give a child food with artificial coloring and flavors. If you think these harm you as an adult, more likely these are going to harm your kids," Department of Health Disease Prevention and Control Bureau officer-in-charge, Dr. Anthony Calibo said in a press briefing in Makati City.

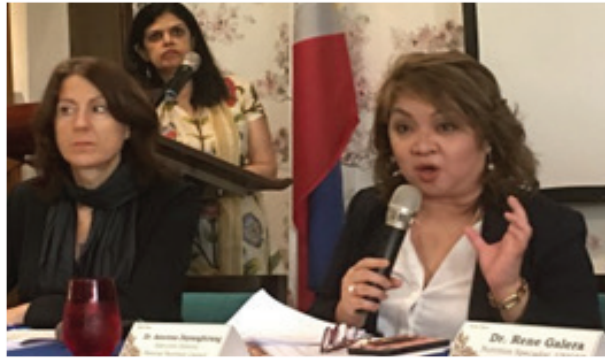

Calibo said healthy eating does not start during adulthood but during early childhood.

"These instant noodles may have the good intention to provide nutrition, they may even possess the micronutrient Sangkap Pinoy Seal, meaning they have been fortified, but if they're high in sodium, it is going to be unhealthy for the baby's kidney," he said.

Meanwhile, National Nutrition Council executive director, Dr. Azucena Dayanghirang said it cannot be ruled out that instant noodles do not have nutritional value at all.

"We tell manufacturers to reformulate their products, huwag masyado damihan ang asin. Noodles as the most affordable for households, we tell them to add mga gulay like kalabasa, malunggay, itlog din pwede (vegetables like squash, malunggay, egg also)," Dayanghirang said.

Citing that frequent instant noodles consumption could lead to hypertension, Calibo advised that it must be eaten sparingly.

"For example, you've been feeding your child instant pancit canton every day, that's not a recommendation, probably once a week, and you shouldn't be giving other salty food like chips you already gave instant pancit canton," he said.

To keep children from consuming instant noodles and processed food, Calibo urged parents to prepare meals ahead of time.

"Children are heavily dependent on adults, start teaching your caregiver to serve healthy food options if you're working and unable to prepare meals. There are dieticians and nutritionists you can consult and they can help you in the preparation of a healthy meal plan for your family," he added. (PNA)

DOH-Calabarzon to establish reg'l council for mental health care

MANILA -- A regional council for mental health care is set to be established by the Department of Health (DOH) in Calabarzon (Cavite, Laguna, Batangas, Rizal, and Quezon) region.

DOH Calabarzon Regional Director Eduardo Janairo on Thursday said the creation of the Regional Council for Mental Health provides sustainability to the current mental health programs in the country.

"We have to sustain many factors related to health problems, it has to be resolved, we have to make a process and policy in the region based on needs on mental health," Janairo said during the 2nd Regional Mental Health Summit in Quezon City.

"That mental council would set a standard of patients' referrals, the way we [DOH] help and support the patient's mental needs which mental health care will be sustainable forever," Janairo added.

Janairo also laid out DOH Calabarzon's action plans upon the creation of the regional council.

"We will make a database to know how rampant it is [mental health problem] in Calabarzon, if we get the number, we will be able to plot the plans for our patients," he said.

"We will be able to see the needed budget required for the implementation of this program in the entire region, we can now attend to the needs of the patients as well as to integrate the universal health care program by the community," he added.

The DOH-led council is composed of government and non-government agencies, local health units and partner hospitals in the Calabarzon region.

The implementing rules and regulations (IRR) of Republic Act No. 11036, otherwise known as the Mental Health Act, was signed into law on June 20, 2018, and took effect on July 5, that same year.

The law highlights a balanced delivery of mental health services -- both community and hospital-based -- and more focused on individuals with psychiatric, neurologic, and psychosocial health needs, and overcoming society's challenges.

Janairo urged people who experience mental health issues to "live free from stigma and discrimination".

"I'm appealing to those people not to be afraid, we have trained health workers in Calabarzon to assist you and identify your mental needs," Janairo said.

He added that medical consultation related to mental health is free of charge.

"We will organize a regional council for mental health to provide mental health services from barangay health station to rural health units up to hospitals as this will be part of the referral system under the Mental Health Act," Janairo said.

The regional council grants protection to persons availing psychiatric, neurologic and psychosocial health services.

The council will be organized after a two-day event regional mental Health Summit on Oct. 17-18. (PNA)

DSWD to supply 360K bags of rice per month to 4Ps beneficiaries

MANILA -- The Department of Social Welfare and Development (DSWD) is currently devising its approach to the shift from cash to rice allocation for its 4.4 million Pantawid Familyang Pilipino Program (4Ps) beneficiaries.

DSWD Undersecretary for Special Concerns Camilo Gudmalin, said about 360,000 bags of 50 kilograms of rice will be needed per month for distribution to the six regions that were selected for pilot-testing.

"To preclude comparison among beneficiaries, we plan to cover the whole region to these listed provinces. There are about a million 4Ps beneficiaries in these six regions. With a 90-percent compliance rate, about 360,000 bags of 50 kilograms will be needed per month," Gudmalin said in an interview on Tuesday.

Senator Cynthia Villar, who authored the amendment of the General Appropriations Act of 2019, said the provinces which will pilot test the in-kind rice distribution are Cagayan and Isabela, Ilocos Norte, Tarlac and Nueva Ecija, Occidental and Oriental Mindoro, Iloilo, and Zamboanga del Sur. Villar introduced the amendment as a response to the plunging farm gate prices of palay (unhusked rice).

In another interview, Villar said that the pilot testing will take place from November to December this year. It will run again next year depending on feedback and success rate.

An indicator for their success rate, Gudmalin said, is "[if there are] no grievances from the beneficiaries, and for the palay prices to go back to normal".

He added that the beneficiaries have no qualms about the shift from cash to rice as long as "the distribution outlets are near to them".

He said that while providing cash is obviously a better option, a more pressing matter is needed to be addressed.

"It is easy to distribute and easy to collect. In-kind distribution is difficult to distribute and time-consuming and tedious to collect. However, we need to help local palay farmers. If the government will not buy palay, the farmers will be at the mercy of rice traders," he explained.

Villar, meanwhile, also tapped the Department of the Interior and Local Government, Department of National Defense, and the Department of Environment and Natural Resources who also have rice subsidy programs to distribute rice instead of giving cash.

The National Food Authority, in turn, will procure palay 'directly' from local farmers.

Data from the Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA) showed that the average farm gate price of palay has slid to its lowest in eight years.

Based on the latest weekly price monitoring report of the PSA, a kilo of palay was sold at an average of PHP15.96 during the third week of September, down 1.4 percent and 30.1 percent from week-ago and year-ago levels, respectively.

Gudmalin said the public will be informed of the Senate's decision whether it will approve the amendment by November after its recess.

"Once the joint resolution is approved, we will launch social marketing activities through media, and FDS to inform the beneficiaries of the shift," Gudmalin said. (PNA)
